

Special Guests Kicking Off New Programming Series Launched by Washington Post
Live Accessible to Post Subscribers

MOCK

By WashPostPR

January 10, 2022 at 9:00 p.m EST

Want a possible chance of having a personal experience with a memorable journalist? Washington Post Live announces that they will be launching a new programming series furthering their subscribers' experience with contents that are posted. It is only available for Post subscribers, giving them exclusive benefits, “We are always looking for ways to enhance the experience of our subscribers. This series gives them access to discussions and guest pairings they can’t find anywhere else and invites them to be part of the conversation.” said Kris Coratti Kelly, Chief Communications Officer for the Washington Post.

A few of their features include insightful discussions and interviews with journalists, newsmakers, and notable authors. Subscribers will also receive a video and a free copy of the author’s book of the event.

Their first event will be hosted on January 18th at 12 P.M., featuring two significant investigative journalists, Carl Bernstein and Carol Leonnig. Bernstein will be discussing his memoir, Chasing History: A Kid in the Newsroom, recounting significant events of his life from being a copyboy to breaking the Watergate scandal. More information on the event can be found here or register.

Contact

Tania Fils-Aime

347-984-4551

tdfilsaime@gmail.com